

Most journals use peer review to aid decisions related to acceptance of a paper for publication. For authors planning to submit to peer-reviewed journals, Eduspread offers an independent pre-submission review service.

This service should speed passage of the paper through the target journal's peer review.

Editors-in-Chief may assess the quality of your research design and give practical suggestions for revisions of your study or report. Please contact our editorial office if you would request pre-submission review.